Leadership Summit

Beginning in the spring of 2003, the Responsible Hospitality Institute (RHI) began a series of Leadership Summits to collect and organize information on trends, issues, gaps and resources relating to the development of dining and entertainment districts. The three part process begins with a Community Engagement Orientation, with key “influentials” assuming a leadership role in organizing and facilitating a series of Roundtables.

In the early phases there were three specific stakeholders identified for separate Roundtable focus groups – hospitality, safety and development. Burlington, Vermont recommended a fourth focus with residential and community representatives.

Representatives from each of the Roundtables were selected to participate in a Leadership Summit to identify the top five priority action steps, achievable within six months, utilizing existing resources, though improved communication and collaboration, and become a member of a Hospitality Resource Panel/Partnership.

The development of the Practical Guide evolved from the collective insights from each of these Leadership Summits as well as from a series of four Networking Conferences where representatives from dozens of other cities participated, and each of the host cities served as a laboratory of discovery. It is the contribution of time and knowledge of the hundreds of individuals representing an equal number of organizations from the following cities that deserves recognition for their participation.
